COAL COMMISSION TELLS PARTIES TO COAL DISPUTE THEY MUST BE READY WITH CASES BY 8 TONIGHT

If Unable to Agree They Are to List Main Points in Dispute at that Hour and Lay Before Body.

TIME GROWS SHORT

New York, Aug. 17.—Formal notice was served on the anthracite miners and operators by the United States Coal Commission today that they must get together and advise the Commission by 8:00 p. m. just exactly what strategic points they are unable to agree upon.

The notice was served on S. B. Warriner, Chairman of the Operator's Policy Committee and John L. Lewis, President of the United Mine Workers when they were called into conference with the Coal Commission shortly before noon.

Plans were immediately made for a joint session of miners and operators, at which the "points of disagreement" will be drawn up and the whole matter prepared for submission to the Commission. The report will be handed to the Commission before 8:00 p. m.

New York, Aug. 17.—With an anthracite strike two weeks away the United States Coal Commission moved today amid discouraging circumstances to draw the "points of disagreement" between the miners and operators toward conciliation.

Falling in their final conference today the Commission will lay the facts before President Coolidge for action. Matters stood exactly at the same point of deadlock as when the negotiators broke up conference at Atlantic City several weeks ago, when the operators went before the Commission this morning to state their full case.

Operators had previously issued a public statement this morning.

John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, speaking for the miners, charged the operators had repudiated a pledge to accept the miners' proposition on the check-off, while Warriner, speaking for the operators made a counter claim.

"The operator has not repudiated any pledges," Warriner said. "We oppose the miners' proposition for a check-off because we believe it is illegal to deduct from our workers' salaries dues for their union."

Lewis reiterated his strike threat.

"We hope to see the suspension of work may be averted," he said. "And we have offered a plan whereby this may be accomplished." But it is evident the operators are not at all anxious to avert a suspension. A strike will be declared on September 1st unless an agreement on a new contract is reached before that time," Lewis said.

Washington, Aug. 17.—President Coolidge is determined that the people of the country will not be made to endure the hardships of an anthracite strike this winter, it was declared at the White House today.

The President's complete plans to save the country from the hardship of a coal strike will not be revealed yet by his government aides but it was said if the miners and operators cannot reach an agreement Mr. Coolidge is fully prepared to act.

It is believed the next step by Mr. Coolidge may be a move to have the two sides submit to arbitration of disputed points.

TOADSTOOLS FOR MUSHROOMS

The family of Percy Bloom of New Milford, consisting of five persons, got some toadstools mixed up in a batch of mushrooms they cooked for supper last night, and all were made deathly sick from eating them. Two physicians worked for some time to counteract the effects of the poison and succeeded in saving the lives of the family, although one little girl is yet in a serious condition.

Mother 60, Daughter 30, Walk Calmly To Death From Six Story Building

New York, Aug. 17.—Hand in hand, Mrs. Anna Stearns, aged sixty and her daughter Florence, thirty, fell to death from the roof of a six story apartment building today.

Passengers on an elevated train saw the mother and daughter plunge wavering in the early morning breeze and saw a note flutter in the hand of the mother.

"Please take our bodies to Apartment 62. The key is in me. Note," Henry M. Mirsch.

"Mirsch refused to talk. He is said to be a business partner of Mrs. Stearns' son here, who is on a vacation.

"The bodies of mother and daughter, always inseparable in life, landed together in death on the roof of a one story car shop with such an impact that a clock in the building stopped.

Oliver, this morning and escaped with $108, after threatening the lives of Albert Bigelman, manager of the store, and a ten-year-old boy who was making purchases. The money taken by the bandits was yesterday's receipts.

PUBLIC ASSEMBLY AT STEUBENVILLE BANNED BY MAYOR

Authorities Fear Any Other Course Would Be to Encourage Another Break with Klan.

ARE PROBING RIOT

Steubenville, Ohio, Aug. 17.—Public assemblies were under the ban in Steubenville today as city and county authorities probe the rioting here Wednesday night of 3000 citizens and 100 Ku Klux Klan in which two men were killed and a score of others injured and several automobiles wrecked. The city, banning public meetings, is trying to prevent recurrence of the fighting, which is believed to have been the outcome of the city primaries.

1,000 Klansmen from Southern Ohio Western Pennsylvania and West Virginia met at Richmond, Ohio, last night to make plans for securing the release of 6 of their members held in Steubenville in connection with the riot.

IN CLEARFIELD ON LONG HIKE

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Krom, a pair of tourists, who are walking across the continent from Portland, Maine, to Portland, Oregon, came to Clearfield today from DuBois. Mr. and Mrs. Krom had the harrowing experience of having their home burn, together with all its contents and their dear little year-old baby, who was trapped in the flames.

The experience shattered the nerves and health of Mrs. Krom and her physician advising that the only way her health could be restored would be for her to get out into the open, the couple then decided to walk across the country. They had covered between six and seven hundred miles of their long journey when they arrived in Clearfield.

They are selling post cards as they travel from place to place, and called to see Mayor Kittberger to have him give them his autograph and official seal.

TWENTY-EIGHT CASES OF TYPHOID

There are at present 28 persons down with the disease.

GRATITUDE A THING UNKNOWN, SAYS MR. FINLEY, WHO FAITHFULLY SAW THAT HIS WIFE NEVER OVERSLEPT

Chicago, Aug. 14.—Robert Finley was as kind and as thoughtful as it is possible for husband to be in the four months that he and his wife, Mildred, were married.

Still, she wants a divorce and it looked today as if the Circuit Court were going to give it to her. Finley can't understand it.

For four solid months, mind you he has been waking her up and telling her it's time for her to go to work and—well, it's hard to believe, but the woman didn't appreciate it. Not a whit.

It isn't every husband who will spoil his after sunrise nap to wake up his wife. If a chap isn't a good sleeper, there's danger of his being unable to get back to sleep after shaking the little woman off to the daily grind.

Less considerate men might forget to wake up.

But Mrs. Finley, being like all women, a little unreasonable at times, took the stand that he ought to drag his hips out to work himself. Isn't that comical?

Mrs. Finley testified her husband had not worked one day in the four months they were married.

Of course, Finley was a little hasty at times. She said, for instance, that one time he beat her because her salary wasn't as large as he thought it ought to be, considering the dandy way in which he was helping her.

Mrs. Finley told the Court she finally put her foot down and decided to get a divorce because, before two of her girl friends, he pitched her downstairs when she didn't bring him home money to buy himself a suit.

Being pitched downstairs was—"so awful, you understand, but the idea of doing it before company annoyed her."

DISARMAMENT TREATY IN EFFECT TODAY; HUGHES, MASTER MIND IN EPOCHAL ACCOMPLISHMENT, HAS A PLACE OF HONOR IN CEREMONIES

Washington, Aug. 17.—The five power naval disarmament treaty, straffing scores of great battleships in the our power Pacific pact, designed to remove the menace of war in the Far East, went into effect today.

These treaties are the principal accomplishments of the Washington Disarmament Conference.

By quirk of fate, the final fruition of the principal part of the conference was heralded to the world one week after the burial of the late President Warren G. Harding, who summoned the great powers of the world together in conference here in November 1921.

Ratifications of the two treaties were exchanged and deposited in a ceremony in the diplomatic room of the State Department shortly after noon today.

The exchange was made between Secretary of State Hughes, the man who guided the conference to success, and charges d'affaires of the powers concerned with the exception of Japan, which was represented by Ambassador Hanfura.

Secretary Hughes opened the ceremony with the statement: "On behalf of the United States, I deposit the ratification of the treaty in the elimination of armaments and of the four power pact."

His remains were prepared for burial by Undertaker Leavy and shipped to the home of his parents in Wellsboro, Pa., for interment.

THE TRUTH

About The Rolling Stone Bridge

THE TRUTH ABOUT THE ROLLING STONE BRIDGE

The Rolling Stone bridge is now open for traffic and more than fifty vehicles, on an average, pass over daily. Now it appears that a certain County Commissioner is trying to deceive the voters into believing that the rebuilding of said bridge was brought about through his influence, when in fact said commissioner was its worst enemy.

Said Commissioner told the Commission of Public Grounds and Buildings that the bridge at Deer Creek was the only bridge of the two that needed it, and that of every ten vehicles crossing the river between Karthaus and Shawsville, nine went over the Deer Creek bridge. He also told them that there was a very dangerous crossing at Rolling Stone. The fact is that the crossing at Rolling Stone is not any more dangerous than the one at Karthaus, and no accidents have ever occurred at either of the two crossings.

The people of Eastern Girard, Covington, and Karthaus Townships in Clearfield County, and West Keating and East Keating in Clinton county, having seen advertisements for bids for rebuilding the Deer Creek bridge and none for rebuilding the half bridge at Rolling Stone, began to wonder if they were to be shut off entirely from the markets at Grass Flat, Windburne, Kylertown and other towns on that side of the river where many of them had found ready sale for their products. So the people above named Townships got together and had J. L. McGonigal of Pottersdale call the County Commissioners to Karthaus for an interview. On the arrival of the N. Y. C. River Line ferry, Mr. Tom Weimer and M. L. Farrell got off the train, there being about 35 representatives of the township there also to meet them. We received a very warm handshake from Mr. Weimer but a very cold one from Mr. Farrell, as the first question asked by Mr. Farrell was, "What kind of a damn f---up have you people got to catch us?"

We were there to them as we thought that they were representatives and could tell us why the bridge at Deer Creek was up for bid and the one at Rolling Stone was apparently knocked out.

Mr. Farrell's reply was that only one bridge was to be built, and that he thought that as the one at Deer Creek was used most, that it should be the bridge built.

That sort of ruled the delegation from the township and J. L. McGonigal then informed the Commissioners that he would get out petitions and have them presented to the Commissioners of Public Grounds and Buildings at Harrisburg showing that the township was a necessity and that it was needed just as much as the one at Deer Creek. Whereupon Mr. Farrell made the remark that he would not sign such a petition.

Within one hour from that time Squire Wolmar of Karthaus had a number of petitions headed and placed in the hands of J. L. McGonigal, Miles Conaway and Joe Kailburn, who began traveling over the districts affected by the Rolling Stone bridge and with the assistance of George E. McGonigal, Matthew Shaver, who furnish cars without charge, they traveled over West Keating, Karthaus, Covington, and most of Girard, and Girard Townships where they found the people anxious to sign the petitions. We had 19 petitions and secured between twelve and fifteen hundred signers.

The petitions were sent to H. B. Scott's office at Philipsburg as he was to be one of the representatives to go to Harrisburg with us, but he fell down on the job when he found out that our friend Maxwell of Morrisdale was not in favor of the rebuilding of the bridge, and when we found that Mr. Scott had changed his mind about going to Harrisburg with us, we went to his office and secured the petitions at Mr. Weimer (who rendered every assistance within his power to help us have the bridge rebuilt), J. L. McGonigal and W. E. Conaway took the petitions to Harrisburg where they were presented to Mr. Templeton, of the Commission of Public Grounds and Buildings.

We were then surprised to learn that Mr. Farrell had told the Commission when he visited them that the bridge at Rolling Stone was not needed and as a result they had ordered the rebuilding of the Deer Creek bridge, and refused to order the rebuilding of the bridge at Rolling Stone.

However when the 19 petitions were presented to Thomas Templeton, signed by some of the best people in the county, he soon saw the necessity of the bridge at Rolling Stone and joined Messrs. Weimer, McGonigal and Conaway, and together they went to see State Treasurer Snyder and explained the situation to him and after some little argument he joined the delegation and we went to the office of Auditor General Lewis and explained the necessity of the bridge being rebuilt to him. We found him to be a real man and he remarked that it was a shame that a whole farming community should be shut off from their lands for three or four years for the sake of one span of bridge.

As the petitions had been left in Mr. Templeton's office, Mr. Lewis told us to get the petitions and they would have something done before the following Saturday evening.

We found Mr. Snyder, Mr. Templeton and Mr. Lewis very nice men and willing to listen to reason, and when they understood the situation they were willing to give us every assistance within their power, but from the above, it can be easily seen just how much Mr. Farrell did toward having the Rolling Stone bridge rebuilt.

We also found that the Commission of Public Grounds and Buildings had been left under the impression that it would cost more money to rebuild the Rolling Stone bridge than it would cost to rebuild the Deer Creek bridge, and when they found that the cost would not be so high, and that there was plenty of money available to have both bridges rebuilt, they soon converted.

GOLF EQUIPMENT FOR WEEK-END PLAYERS

We have them all.

tuned for bids for rebuilding the Rolling Stone bridge also.

Mr. Farrell also tries to leave the impression that we were opposed to the rebuilding of the bridge at Deer Creek, which is not the case, as on the contrary we were much in favor of having both of these bridges rebuilt, as we considered them both a necessity.

The above information is submitted by the undersigned citizens who hereby certify to the truth of every statement contained in this article.

How to build up your Weight

To be under weight often proves low fighting-power in the body. It often means you are minus nerve-power, minus red-cells in your blood, minus a healthy vitality. It is serious to be minus, but the moment you increase the number of your red-blood-cells, you begin to become plus.

That's why S.S.S., since 1876, has meant to thousands of underweight men and women, a plus in their strength. Your body fills to the point of power, your flesh becomes firmer, the age lines that come from thinness disappear. You look younger, firmer, happier, and you feel it, too, all over your body. More red-blood-cells! S.S.S. will build them.

S.S.S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

While "fanning" a little after the firemen's banquet at the park Wednesday evening A. W. Baird, of Osceola, and Jim Cahill, now of Johnstown, but formerly of Osceola, fell to reminiscing over the organization of the Central District Association, and said of the originators of the movement but the two gentlemen named were present at the inception of the organization and in Clearfield to attend the 34th convention.

Baird said the forming of a district convention was first discussed at Columbia park, Osceola on Labor Day, of 1891. There were present at this time a group of firemen composed of A. W. Baird, Jim Cahill and Ed Bates, of Osceola; W. C. Langford and Alex Smith, of Houtzdale; W. F. Bradley, of Clearfield; Steele Criseman and Jack McClellan, of Philipsburg. All of these old timers have been gathered to their reward except Baird, Cahill and Bates.

The party adjourned to the rooms of the Columbia Fire Co., and formed their new organization, making Alex Smith, President. Just fifteen days later the first convention was held at Philipsburg.

Since that time the District Association has grown until at this year's convention on 200 delegates, representing more than fifty fire companies were present.

The proposed reservoir at American Falls, Idaho, will be the largest of its kind in the United States and the fourth largest of its kind in the world. With a capacity of 1,500,000 acre feet of water, the project is estimated, will cost $12,000,000. The height of the dam for the reservoir will be 75 feet.

Earle Brown, sheriff of Hennepin county, is a direct descendant of Saptain David Brown, the first Colonial soldier to kill a British trooper in the Revolutionary war.

Sheriff Brown recently made application for membership in the Sons of the American Revolution. In his application he stated that his Colonial forefather, a captain of the Concord Minute Men, raised his own rifle, ordered his men to open fire, and brot down the first British soldier killed at the Battle of Concord on April 19, 1775.

Col. C. O. Sherrill, military aide to the late President Harding, will continue in that capacity to President Coolidge.

HUGHES REFUSES TO SPONSOR LETTER IN BERGDOLL CASE

Disabled Veterans of World War Were Apparently Premature In Giving News to Press.

PRESS FOR ACTION

Washington, Aug. 16.—The State Department will take no action on the recent Bergdoll kidnapping attempt at Eberbach until a report on the affair has reached the department from official American sources abroad.

That was made plain by Secretary Hughes today in branding as forgery the telegram received in Cincinnati last night by Raymond A. Lassance, national adjutant of the Disabled American Veterans of the World War. The spurious telegram, signed with Secretary Hughes' name, said that, if possible, the government would obtain the immediate extradition of Bergdoll.

That the interests of Lieutenant Hoover Griggs will be protected by the American government was a foregone conclusion, it was stated, but it is doubtful if the United States can do more than see that he receives fair treatment if it is established that he was a party to a conspiracy to kidnap on German soil. No attempt will be made to extradite Bergdoll, as the United States has no treaty with Germany which would permit his removal.

Secretary of State Charles E. Hughes in Washington has announced he intends "immediately" to try to extradite Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, the notorious slacker, from Germany.

The Secretary's announcement contained in a telegram to Raymond A. la Sance, national adjutant of the Disabled Veterans of the World War. It comes on the heels of the killing by Bergdoll of Karl Schmidt, said to be a former American service man, and the wounding of Roger Sperber, his companion. They were alleged to have been trying to kidnap Bergdoll. Lieutenant Corliss Hoover Griggs, a reserve officer of the United States army, and his chauffeur, Eugene Victor Neilson, Chicago, were arrested and jailed at Mosbach, Germany, as co-conspirators.

Mr. Hughes statement follows: "Although the Bergdoll-Griggs situation is extremely delicate, the State Department wishes to assure the national headquarters of the Disabled Veterans of the World War that the utmost care of the Government will be exercised to protect the interest of Lieutenant Griggs and, if possible, to obtain the immediate extradition of Grover Cleveland Bergdoll."

Lieutenant Griggs and his chauffeur, the latest cables say, are being held incommunicado in separate cells in the jail at Mosbach, Baden. The fourth man arrested with them is said to be a Russian prince, known as Gagarin.

To thwart attempts to rescue the Americans, the Neckar valley, in which Heidelberg and Eberbach, where the killing and the arrest of the Americans took place, is said to be an armed camp.

All trains are being searched for parties of rescuers. The Germans in Baden profess to fear an armed invasion by the French military. Sperber, whose thumb was chewed off by Bergdoll, is said to be a native Parisian.

The baggage of the Americans has been searched and turned over to the Baden prosecutor at Karlsruhe. Representative Roy C. Fitzgerald of Dayton, O., in response to a request from the father of Lieutenant Griggs, will appeal personally to President Coolidge, Secretary Hughes and Secretary of War Weeks. The Congressman is a World War veteran and he has frequently demanded on the floor of the House that the Government take steps to compel Germany to surrender Bergdoll.

The situation marks a certain impotency on the part of the Government and it seems to me that the administration has a duty to perform," he said.

"I want this Government to take over, honest and available means to bring this man back to the custody of the United States."

DODGE BROTHERS ANNOUNCE IMPORTANT IMPROVEMENTS

Dodge Brothers have not simply brought out a complete new line of motor cars. They have done something infinitely wiser and better than that.

They have brought new beauty, new riding ease and new mechanical perfection to the product on which their reputation as builders has been founded.

They have built a better and a more desirable line of motor cars—yet basically and fundamentally the identity of their product remains the same.

The same sturdy engine is under the hood; the same dependable chassis, improved in numberless details, underlies the body.

But the rear springs—now underslung—have been materially lengthened. The wheelbase, too, is longer, and the combined result is a notable improvement in riding qualities.

Bodies of all types have been designed to give improved appearance, and greater comfort. Lower, longer, with deeper seats and more leg room, the lines of these new cars are low-slung and graceful—the interiors are comfortable and roomy.

New head lamps and fenders, especially designed by Dodge Brothers to conform with the general lines of the car—a long straight hood and cowl effect—longer and wider running boards—unusually wide doors—combination stop signal and tail lamp—and instruments attractively grouped on raised panel—are a few of the numerous body innovations common to all types.

Combining these features with important mechanical improvements too numerous and technical to enumerate here, it is not extravagant to predict a reception for these cars unprecedented in automotive annals.

Henry Ford must think the people of the United States have no power of reasoning. Not long ago he set forth in his Dearborn Independent an argument showing that a certain coal company could reduce its price for coal one dollar per ton and still make a fair profit. He evidently did not stop to think that every reader will at once respond that Mr. Ford could cut the price of his silver $50 and still make a fair profit.

Now, in the editorial page of his paper, Mr. Ford severely criticizes newspapers for publishing articles signed by Jack Dempsey, Babe Ruth and others, when everybody knows that these men did not write the articles and could not have written them. But on the page opposite that editorial there is a full page article headed "Mr. Ford's Page."

It is a splendid article, written in magnificently constructed sentences, perfect in grammatical construction and rhetorical composition. It displays a considerable knowledge of history. In view of the fact that Mr. Ford had little schooling, though that Benedict Arnold was a writer, and declared that "history is bunk," there are few of the readers of that article who will believe that Ford wrote it, even though it bears his name.

Most people will believe that Ford is too busy with more important things to spend his time writing newspaper articles. But why should Mr. Ford criticize the publication of articles under the names of Jack Dempsey and Babe Ruth, if, as Mr. Ford claims, they did not write the articles, when articles are appearing under his name which he did not write?—Albana Tribune.

PEACE WITH MEXICO?

The country may cautiously congratulate itself on the outcome of the mission of Charles B. Warren and Judge John A. Payne to Mexico City. They are hurrying to Washington bearing the minutes of a lengthy interchange of views with Mexico's Commissioners, Fernando Gonzales Roa and Ramon Posada, jointly signed, which it is hoped will be the basis for a new and friendlier relationship between Mexico and the United States.

Recognition of the Obregon Government is conditioned upon the acceptability of these minutes to President Coolidge and Secretary Hughes. Messrs. Warren and Payne have accomplished the initial and more difficult part of a task of supreme importance. An accord with Mexico on a mutually equitable basis had become a political as well as an economic necessity. To reach such an accord, or even the basis for it, required the exercise of limitless patience and resourceful diplomacy.

Mexico has gone through a revolution as complete and almost as drastic as that of Russia. The Mexican Constitution, which exalts the poor, puts into force principles which make it little less difficult and burdensome for foreign capital to acquire or hold land and mineral rights in Mexico than it would be under the Soviet, and for the same reason. The right of the individual is exalted over the right of corporate property. The dangers, irritations and injustices to which American interests in Mexico have been subjected are endless.

Mexico, however, is no less aware than the United States of the distressing aspects of the present situation. The American Commissioners went to Mexico in a spirit of conciliation, and in the same spirit were received by President Obregon. They carried to him the assurance that this country wished to deal no less fairly than it asked to be dealt by.

The peace and friendship that seem assured as a result of this mission were desired ardently by our late President. If the Mexican Government is recognized and friendship re-established, it will be another achievement of that spirit of good will which was President Harding's most endearing characteristic.—Phila. Public Ledger.

Progress Editorial For Women

USELESS CONVERSATIONS
By FLORENCE DAVIES

A couple of men were talking about a fellow worker, who, though a brilliant thinker, happens to be quite deaf.

"He would make a great president of the company," said one of the men "and his deafness, instead of being a handicap, would be a tremendous asset. Think of the useless twaddle he would be spared from having to hear. He would be saved hours of wasted time and be free to concentrate upon problems that matter."

Would that some of us were deaf, if thereby we might escape useless conversations.

The scientists are with us in recognizing the waste of useless talk.

"It is not impossible," says a writer in "American Medicine," "that human efficiency is considerably reduced by the cheers and jeers and the useless conversations of daily life."

Whatever the medicine men mean by "cheers and jeers" of life, it is perfectly apparent that unless we turn ourselves into machines we cannot get along without some of them.

Even useless conversation is a human failing, without which life would lose much of its flavor. But something depends upon what we mean by useless. The small pleasantries have their place. Even remarks about the weather have a kind of extra meaning.

"It's a little warmer today," mumbled to a friend in passing or while waiting for a street car, means vastly more than a comment upon the state of the thermometer.

It means something like this: "While I have nothing in particular to say to you, dear madam, I bumble these words about the weather just to make talk and thereby show you that I have a friendly feeling toward you and do not wish to stand here in glum silence."

Now that isn't wholly useless, even though it isn't necessary.

But the fact remains that countless people cut down their own efficiency and the efficiency of their friends by useless talk. Talking uses up countless tons of nervous energy. And of all the useless and hurtful talk, none is more so than that which deals in petty personalities.

The woman who runs over to borrow a pattern and can't get away until she has rehearsed all her family troubles and those of half her neighbors, not only takes the pattern but often filches a precious hour from you while she stands in the door way, "too busy" to come in and sit down.

When she finally gets away the clock has crept a whole hour nearer noon and though you have done no work you are wearier than if you spent that whole hour over the ironing board.

Only the hard-pressed business woman, whose desk is piled high with orders, or letters or important details, knows the enormity of the crime of useless conversation. She listens to hours of tedious explanation when a simple statement of fact would tell the story. One woman customer even tells just who is coming to visit her when she orders something special from the store.

If weariness has overtaken you, if you are threatened with a nervous breakdown if your efficiency seems to have vanished, there are two things to do. One is to stop and go to a sanatorium for a good rest. The other is to cut out all the useless talk for a month and see how much useless energy you have with which to meet the demands of daily living.

ROCHESTER MILLS BUSINESS MEN ATTEMPT TO GET STOCK MONEY BACK

A meeting of subscribers to the capital stock of the Farmers and Miners' bank at Rochester Mills was called for Wednesday evening, August 15, to take necessary steps to recover money advanced in the promotion of a bank in that town.

In the fall of 1920 Dr. Theodore Kharas, president of the Industrial Securities Company, of Harrisburg, interested residents of that community in the promotion of a bank to be called "The Farmers and Miners Bank of Richmond," at Rochester Mills, Pa. a state bank similar to those organized by him in this State in the past few years. The necessary subscriptions, it appears, were not forthcoming, and the proposition has been hanging for the past three years.

An act was passed at the last session of the legislature which gives the banking commissioner authority to refuse charters to banks organized by promoters, and for this reason the subscribers are contemplating action to recover money already sent in.

HE'S BROKE, SAYS DOLLINGS

Had Million Three Years Ago, But Lost It in Crash.

R. L. Dollings, organizer of the defunct R. L. Dollings Co., of Ohio, parent company of the bankrupt R. L. Dollings Company of Pennsylvania, is completely "broke." Three years ago, it is said, he was a millionaire.

This information was disclosed at a hearing in Cincinnati, before Charles I. Greve, referee in bankruptcy. Dollings was put on the stand by counsel for his personal creditors, in an attempt to determine whether he had assets other than listed by him in his personal bankruptcy schedule, in which he listed stocks which were alleged to be worthless, and a small tract of land, clothing and a watch.

A report from a mercantile agency was introduced to show that in 1920 Dollings had a net personal wealth of approximately $1,200,000.

Asked if he owned anything else at the present time that was not listed in his schedule, Dollings replied: "No, I am completely broke and have been for a year."

Efforts of counsel to connect Dollings with the ownership of various properties were unsuccessful.

FORD HAS BUILT MILLION CARS SO FAR THIS YEAR

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 16.—Domestic production of Ford Cars and Trucks for 1928 reached one million Friday July 20, it is just announced at the offices of the Ford Motor Company.

Under the growing demand for Ford products since the start of the year, production has been steadily increasing and the million mark was reached between two and three months earlier this year than in 1927. The first millionth car was reached in 1915, approximately 12 years after the company started. To meet the increasing demand since that time production has every year been stepped up until now manufacturing facilities are so enormous as to permit the company to produce a million cars and trucks in the remarkably short period of a few days over six months.—Adv.

American Farm Bureau

These County Champion Club Members of New Mexico Are Competing in the Live Stock Judging at the Final State Competition at State College. The Winning Team Will Compete With Other States at Chicago.

STATE FARM BUREAUS
USING AX ON TAXES

Facts Secured by Bureau of Agricultural Economics.

Taxes on farm land in 1922 showed an increase of 134 per cent over 1913. The average taxes on land, per farm, now stand at $108. With the personal property and income tax added, the average for each farm is brought up to $151. On this basis the total direct tax now paid by agriculture is close to one billion dollars. These are the facts secured by the United States bureau of agricultural economics in a survey covering more than 6,000 farms in every part of the United States. Some reduction should be made in the figures, since the farms surveyed were larger than the average shown by the census. The conclusion reached by the department of research is that the total direct tax paid by farmers would be around $800,000,000, or $140 per farm.

Total receipts from direct taxation in the United States for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1922, were $5,673,000,000. Direct farm taxes comprised 18 per cent of this total. Of state and local taxes amounting to $3,585,000,000, agriculture, it is estimated, paid 22 per cent.

Several state and county farm bureaus have become interested in studying their local taxation problems. In ten states, according to reports made to the American Farm Bureau federation, work has been undertaken which has yielded profitable results.

The department of research report analyses in detail the work carried on in these ten states. A fair idea of this work can be gained by a synopsis of the taxation activities of the New Hampshire, Nebraska and Kentucky farm bureaus.

The tax committee of the New Hampshire farm bureau found that tangible property, which includes farms, homes, real estate, representing a wealth of approximately $500,000,000 in New Hampshire, paid over $11,000,000 taxes in 1922, while intangible property in the form of securities, representing a wealth greater than all the tangible property, paid only $100,000. It also found that of the various classes of tangible property, farms and farmers' property in the form of live stock was bearing more than its share of the burden, for it found in most cases property taxed at approximately 100 per cent of its value, and sometimes even more, while some of the big mercantile corporations of the state and some of the public utilities were taxed at from 50 to 85 per cent of their actual value.

The committee recommended that the tax commission compile and make public figures indicating the relative percentages of the total revenue—both state and local—which is raised on different classes of property. It requested data showing the relation of assessed valuations to true values for each class of property.

The work in Nebraska was started by the Thurston county farm bureau, in an analysis of public expenditures. Before this compilation was made feeling had been running high in Thurston county against excessive taxes. Some of the taxpayers were blaming the state for building a $5,000,000 capitol, others blamed the road-building program, and others the construction of bridges. The survey gave the facts, which made every one more satisfied.

The work in Thurston county was reported to the state organization and, through the efforts of the state farm bureau tax committee, similar data were compiled by the state treasurer for each county in the state. The president of the Nebraska farm bureau says that there was another feature of the work which had more direct results.

In Thurston county it was found that the county bridge fund, and the whole indebtedness fund, and the emergency bridge fund, amounting to $2 of the $4.90, were all spent for bridges, and it was believed in an unauthorized way. The county farm bureau took the matter up and appointed a tax committee to investigate. The investigation resulted in calling the state engineer and actually visiting and checking the material and construction of 119 bridges which had been built for two years. It is a long story and the result of it was that the investigation through the farm bureau secured a reduction in the cost of these bridges of $34,000. For the coming year a tax committee, with a member from each precinct, was organized to meet with the county board and assist in auditing bills and inspecting contracts.

The Kentucky farm bureau, through its tax committee, is co-operating with county farm bureaus in resisting increases in assessed valuation which are considered inequitable. Proper legal action is taken in behalf of farm bureau members only. In Union county $28,584 in taxes were saved in 1922 for 465 members of the farm bureau. This was an average saving of $53.95 per member.

SPECIAL SERVICE IS PROMISED BY ROADS

Result of First Meeting of Farmers and Carriers.

Special service in transporting farm supplies has been guaranteed co-operative buying associations in the Eastern states by 12 big railroads as the result of a conference held between representatives of the roads and the farmers' organizations in Cleveland.

Eight co-operative associations distributing farm supplies in the East were represented, including the G. L. F. exchange, Eastern States Farmers' exchange, Pennsylvania Federation of Co-operatives, Maryland Agricultural corporation, West Virginia Co-operative association and the Farm Bureau federations of Ohio, Michigan and Indiana.

The movement of solid trainloads of supplies from the Mid West to the East was promised the producers' associations. This type of service is now rendered packers and other big shippers of perishable products. The railroads represented were the New York Central, New Haven & Hartford, Pennsylvania, Erie, Boston & Albany, Nickel Plate, Peoria Belt line, Canadian Pacific, B & O, Grand Trunk, Big Four and B. & M.

In commenting on the conference, H. E. Babcock, general manager of the G. L. F. exchange declared "The meeting brought together for the first time the carriers and the producers of the East. The attitude of the roads is one of co-operation. Their action in providing solid trainload service will mean lower costs of production in the East, for it will eliminate some of the unsatisfactory transportation conditions of the past, and it will permit the co-operative associations to furnish service of a high order to their members."

THORNTON FRIEND OF LEGION

Head of Canadian Railway System, Long in Army Service, Strong for Organization.

A Canadian by adoption, but formerly a citizen of the United States, Sir Henry Thornton, head of the great Canadian national railway system, shows his respect for American World war fighters on every occasion.

When members of the American Legion in Canada gathered to pay tribute to the honored World war dead of the nation, Sir Henry was the principal speaker, taking this opportunity to demonstrate his regard for the heroes of the land of his birth. The event was attended not only by American Legion members, but representatives of nearly every allied nation.

One of the best known men in the Dominion of Canada, Sir Henry is heartily co-operating with the attempt of the American Legion to organize the veterans of the United States now in Canada into posts of the American Legion. A recent reorganization of the Legion in the Dominion has caused the inauguration of such a campaign.

Sir Henry was born in Logansport, Ind., in 1871. His early education was received at St. Paul's, Concord, N. H., and he later entered the University of Pennsylvania. Here he received a degree from the civil engineering department of the school in 1894, and almost immediately obtained employment with the Pennsylvania Railway company as a draughtsman. He held various important positions with the engineering department of this company and in 1911 became general superintendent of the Long Island rail way, a subsidiary line of the Pennsylvania. In this capacity he had much to do with the development of the Long Island terminal and with the electrification of the Long Island railroad.

In April, 1914, he was called to England to become general manager of the Great Eastern railway. This railway was one of the most important military lines of communication during the war. In 1916 Mr. Thornton was named deputy director of inland water transportation, with the rank of colonel in the Royal Engineers. This department handled all inland water navigation in northern France, Egypt and Mesopotamia. He rose to the rank of major general, and was named inspector general of transportation in 1918. Following his acceptance of British naturalization in 1919, he was gazetted a knight commander of the Order of the British Empire. He has been awarded the American Distinguished Service Medal, the Order of Leopold from the Belgians, and the Legion of Honor from the French.

Sir Henry Thornton, K. C. B.

Call from Canada for Sir Henry's services came in November, 1922, when he was asked to go to the Dominion to the Canadian National Railway system as chairman of the board of directors and president of the company.

AIM TO TEACH PATRIOTISM

Several New Laws, Approved by American Legion, Passed by West Virginia Legislature.

Before any person can become a teacher in West Virginia schools, he or she must take an oath of allegiance to support the Constitution of the United States and the state of West Virginia. This is the text of a bill passed recently by the West Virginia legislature as one of three measures sponsored by the American Legion, all of which have become statutes of the state.

The bill requiring the oath of allegiance is one of the ideas for carrying out plans for thorough Americanization put forward by the Legion and given strength by the support of the veterans' organization.

Another bill requires that the United States flag shall be flown over every schoolhouse in the state while schools are in session, except in inclement weather. The bill further provides that the flag, a regulation United States standard, shall be purchased by the school board from the building fund.

The third bill which received the support of the Legion calls for thorough training in the schools of the state in history of the United States, civics and instruction in the constitutions of the nation and of the state. This bill was presented with the idea that this would the principles of Americanism, the perpetuation of the ideals of the nation, and knowledge of the organization of the government to one known to every student in the state.

Curwensville's Own Column

Robert Holden, of Bellwood, dropped into Curwensville yesterday for a short visit with relatives and old time friends. "Bob" Holden is one of the few men living around these parts who have logs out of Anderson creek when a "log cutter" was as much a profession as a doctor or a lawyer. When the lumbering business grew slack he went to Bellwood and entered the employ of the P. R. R. company as a locomotive fireman and in due time was promoted to an engineer. His health failing about a year ago he was placed on the retired list and pensioned after more than twenty years continuous service.

Mrs. Maud Dougherty, of Philadelphia, is visiting with her sister, Mrs. Jos. L. Dale on George street. The Jacob Cole family was quite a large one in its day but now there are only two members of it living. Mrs. Dale and Mrs. Dougherty, the eldest and the youngest. Thus one by one they pass away until in the course of a few years entire families are wiped out, and their names almost forgotten by us who are fast aging and becoming bald and grey headed.

Some three or four civil war veterans residing in this community, drove over to DuBois yesterday and attended a district gathering of old comrades held in that city. It is said to relate, but true nevertheless, that there are less than half a hundred old veterans residing within the confines of Clearfield county today.

The Messes Parmeter, neices of Mrs. Lew McKenrick from Eldred, Pa. are visiting at the home of their aunt Mr. and Mrs. John Musser, who visited in the McKenrick household last week have returned to their home in DuBois, Pa.

The third annual all-day cutting picnic under the auspices of the Methodist and Lutheran schools, will be held at Winimoor park, near New Millport, on Thursday, Aug. 23d. All Sunday schools and attendants are most cordially invited.

C. A. Brown, an employee at the Crescent brick plant, had a Ford 1922 model, stolen Wednesday night at late hour. The car was parked on Filbert street near the Dotts garage. The machine bore license number 731-641 and engine number 6191108. The stolen car was equipped with spare tire and a hub metre. An attempt was made the same night to get away with a car belonging to Dick Lantz, but the thieves failed to work the lock combination and could not get the car in motion. State Police and other officers have been notified to keep a watch for the stolen car and arrest any one having the same in his or their possession.

Wednesday night the town was given over to the Rhoda Rebecca lodge of Odd Fellows, in order that they might successfully carry out their program which they termed and advertised as "Arabian Night." The square between the bank corner and the Park house was roped off in order that the crowd of people could have full sway at the booths which had been erected on the south side of the street, and containing any and every kind of goods, candies, cakes and pies that one could wish. The crowd numbered several thousand people and the booths did a landoffice business until after midnight, when the ladies who had charge were tired enough to retire to their homes for a little rest. The drawing for the Maxwell car was the most interesting event on the book and every one who had a ticket was on tip toe until the winner was announced. The lucky ticket was held by Paul Floyd, of Williamsport. All in all the night was one full of amusement and sport and no doubt the promoters of the event received considerable remuneration from their venture.

The Street carnival will be continued in Curwensville during the balance of the week. The Yellow Dogs will sponsor it. All money derived as their share of the profits will be turned over to some improvement to be made at the Park ground. This will be a chance for everyone to contribute a share toward this movement and at the same time receive something for their money. The Yellow Dog organization does not want any of the profits derived either from the carnival or what is received from their Labor Day celebration; all will be strictly applied to improvements to be made out on the Park grounds and nowhere else. The Yellow Dogs is an institution that is independent within themselves, and whenever they desire to create a fund for expenses of halls, etc., they solicit among the members and never ask for more than is actually necessary.

Moose Legion, No. 1, to the number of over fifty, banqueted at the Park House Wednesday evening. The Legion is a degree higher than received in the local lodge and is fast growing in popularity among Clearfield county members of the Moose organization.

Yesterday forenoon Mr. Paul Robinson invited Your Honor to a seat in his car and a drive to "Old Town" to witness the fireman's parade. We accepted and enjoyed both the drive and also in watching the parade from the Court House plaza. One excitable lad, whose feet were judged to be about three hundred, trod on our sore toe, and gee whiz, when she reared up and clapped her hands as the Clearfield fire boys were passing, we made our entire foot and leg farewell. She finally hopped off our foot and did not apologize either. We limped around all day as a result of her elephant tread. Gosh darn it, everytime we go down to the county seat to have a little pleasure or fun, some thing always happens to mar it.

Philip Reed and sister, Miss Bernice, left yesterday morning for Philadelphia where they will spend several weeks with relatives.

For some reason or other of which we have not learned, Rescue Hose and Ladder company of Curwensville did not attend the district firemen's convention held at Clearfield yesterday. It is something unusual for this body of volunteer firemen to miss a meeting of this kind, and here tofore carried with them the champion drill team. Some one informs us that the reason for their non attendance was that our firemen do not have a presentable uniform in which to make a respectable appearance in parade. If that was the principal reason, then for goodness sake let the people get together and start some movement by which a sufficient amount of money can be raised to purchase a new uniform in time for the fire boys to attend the convention to be held at Patton next year.

COAL COMMISSION TELLS PARTIES TO COAL DISPUTE THEY MUST BE READY WITH CASES BY 8 TONIGHT

If Unable to Agree They Are to List Main Points
In Dispute at that Hour and Lay Before Body.

TIME GROWS SHORT

New York, Aug. 17.—Formal notice was served on the anthracite miners and operators by the United States Coal Commission today that they must get together and advise the Commission by 8:00 p. m. just exactly what strategic points they are unable to agree upon.

The notice was served on S. B. Warriner, chairman of the Operator's Policy Committee and John L. Lewis, President of the United Mine Workers when they were called into conference with the Coal Commission shortly before noon.

Plans were immediately made for a joint session of miners and operators, at which the "points of disagreement" will be drawn up and the whole matter prepared for submission to the Commission. The report will be handed to the Commission before 8:00 p. m.

New York, Aug. 17.—With an anthracite strike two weeks away the United States Coal Commission moved today to make discouraging circumstances to draw the miners and operators toward conciliation.

Falling in their final conference today the Commission will lay the facts before President Coolidge for action. Matters stood exactly at the same point of deadlock as when the negotiators broke up conference at Atlantic City several weeks ago, when the operators went before the Commission this morning to state their full case.

Operators had previously issued a public statement this morning.

John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, speaking for the miners, charged the operators had repudiated a pledge to accept the miners' proposition on the check-off, while Warriner, speaking for the operators made a counter claim.

"The operator has not repudiated any pledges," Warriner said. "We oppose the miners' proposition for a check-off because we believe it is illegal to deduct from our workers' salaries dues for their union."

Lewis reiterated his strike threat.

"We hope to see the suspension of work may be averted," he said.

"And we have offered a plan whereby this may be accomplished." But it is evident the operators are not at all anxious to avert a suspension. A strike will be declared on September 1st unless an agreement on a new contract is reached before that time," Lewis said.

Washington, Aug. 17.—President Coolidge is determined that the people of the country will not be made to endure the hardships of an anthracite strike this winter, it was declared at the White House today.

The President's complete plans to save the country from the hardship of a coal strike will not be revealed yet by his government aides but it was said if the miners and operators cannot reach an agreement Mr. Coolidge is fully prepared to act.

It is believed the next step by Mr. Coolidge may be a move to have the two sides submit to arbitration of disputed points.

TOADSTOOLS FOR MUSHROOMS

The family of Percy Bloom of New Milford, consisting of five persons, got some toadstools mixed up in a batch of mushrooms they cooked for supper last night, and all were made deathly sick from eating them. Two physicians worked for some time to counteract the effects of the poison and succeeded in saving the lives of the family, although one little girl is yet in a serious condition.

Mother 60, Daughter 30, Walk Calmly To Death From Six Story Building

New York, Aug. 17.—Hand in hand, Mrs. Anna Stearns, aged sixty and her daughter Florence, thirty, fell to death from the roof of a six story apartment building today.

Passengers on an elevated train saw the mother and daughter plunge wavering in the early morning breeze and saw a note flutter in the hand of the mother.

"Please take our bodies to Apartment 62. The key is in me. Note," Henry M. Mirsch.

"Mirsch refused to talk. He is said to be a business partner of Mrs. Stearns' son here, who is on a vacation.

"The bodies of mother and daughter, always inseparable in life, landed together in death on the roof of a one story car shop with such an impact that a clock in the building stopped.

Masked Gunmen Still Operating On A. & P. Stores At Pittsburgh

Pittsburgh, Aug. 17.—Two armed and masked gunmen held up the Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co. store on Brownsville road, Mt. Oliver, this morning and escaped with $108, after threatening the lives of Albert Bigelman, manager of the store, and a ten-year-old boy who was making purchases. The money taken by the bandits was yesterday's receipts.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Pooler have returned home from spending a few days camping.

Luis Angel Firpo, "Wild Bull of the Pampas," having knocked out Charlie Weinst at Philadelphia, now turns to training for his bout with Dempsey for the world's heavyweight title.

PUBLIC ASSEMBLY AT STEUBENVILLE BANNED BY MAYOR

Authorities Fear Any

Be to Encourage Another
Break with Klan.

ARE PROBING RIOT

Steubenville, Ohio, Aug. 17.—Public assemblies were under the ban in Steubenville today as city and county authorities probe the rioting here Wednesday night of 3000 citizens and 100 Ku Klux Klan in which two men were killed and a score of others injured and several automobiles wrecked. The city, banning public meetings, is trying to prevent recurrence of the fighting, which is believed to have been the outcome of the city primaries.

1,000 Klansmen from Southern Ohio Western Pennsylvania and West Virginia met at Richmond, Ohio, last night to make plans for securing the release of 6 of their members held in Steubenville in connection with the riot.

IN CLEARFIELD ON LONG HIKE

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Krom, a pair of tourists, who are walking across the continent from Portland, Maine, to Portland, Oregon, came to Clearfield today from DuBois. Mr. and Mrs. Krom had the harrowing experience of having their home burn, together with all its contents and their dear little year-old baby, who was trapped in the flames.

The experience shattered the nerves and health of Mrs. Krom and her physician advising that the only way her health could be restored would be for her to get out into the open, the couple then decided to walk across the country. They had covered between six and seven hundred miles of their long journey when they arrived in Clearfield.

They are selling post cards as they travel from place to place, and called to see Mayor Kittberger to have him give them his autograph and official seal.

TWENTY-EIGHT CASES OF TYPHOID

Thus far there have been two deaths from the typhoid fever epidemic that has had the village of Karthaus, this county, in its grasp for the past several weeks.

There are at present 28 persons down with the disease.

GRATITUDE A THING UNKNOWN, SAYS MR. FINLEY, WHO FAITHFULLY SAW THAT HIS WIFE NEVER OVERSLEPT

Chicago, Aug. 14.—Robert Finley was as kind and as thoughtful as it is possible for husband to be in the four months that he and his wife, Mildred, were married.

Still, she wants a divorce and it looked today as if the Circuit Court were going to give it to her. Finley can't understand it.

For four solid months, mind you he has been waking her up and telling her it's time for her to go to work and—well, it's hard to believe, but the woman didn't appreciate it. Not a whit.

It isn't every husband who will spoil his after sunrise nap to wake up his wife. If a chap isn't a good sleeper, there's danger of his being unable to get back to sleep after shooting the little woman off to the daily grind.

Less considerate men might forget to wake up.

But Mrs. Finley, being like all women, a little unreasonable at times, took the stand that he ought to drag his hips out to work himself. Isn't that comical?

Mrs. Finley testified her husband had not worked one day in the four months they were married.

Of course, Finley was a little hasty at times. She said, for instance, that one time he beat her because her salary wasn't as large as he thought it ought to be, considering the dandy way in which he was helping her.

Mrs. Finley told the Court she finally put her foot down and decided to get a divorce because, before two of her girl friends, he pitched her downstairs when she didn't bring him home money to buy himself a suit.

Being pitched downstairs was—so awful, you understand, but the idea of doing it before company annoyed her.

Miss Mary Shelton, of Douglas, Ga., designed this hat, trimming it entirely with tobacco leaves.

DISARMAMENT TREATY IN EFFECT TODAY; HUGHES, MASTER MIND IN EPOCHAL ACCOMPLISHMENT, HAS A PLACE OF HONOR IN CEREMONIES

Washington, Aug. 17.—The five power naval disarmament treaty, straffing scores of great battleships in the our power Pacific pact, designed to remove the menace of war in the Far East, went into effect today.

These treaties are the principal accomplishments of the Washington Disarmament Conference.

By quirk of fate, the final fruition of the principal part of the conference was heralded to the world one week after the burial of the late President Warren G. Harding, who summoned the great powers of the world together in conference here in November 1921.

Ratifications of the two treaties were exchanged and deposited in a ceremony in the diplomatic room of the State Department shortly after noon today.

The exchange was made between Secretary of State Hughes, the man who guided the conference to success, and charges d'affaires of the powers concerned with the exception of Japan, which was represented by Ambassador Hanfura.

Secretary Hughes opened the ceremony with the statement: "On behalf of the United States, I deposit the ratification of the treaty in the elimination of armaments and of the four power pact."

ANOTHER TYPHOID VICTIM AT KARTHAUS

Clark Rolley, the 19-year-old son of Lewis and Clara Rolley, passed away at the home of his parents in Karthaus Wednesday evening, August 15, 1923, at 8 o'clock, after several weeks illness, the result of an attack of typhoid fever.

The deceased is survived by his parents, three brothers and four sisters. Two of the sisters are also down with the fever.

The funeral will be held from the Catholic church at Frenchville Saturday morning at 10 o'clock. Interment in Frenchville cemetery.

MICHAEL—MULSON

Harry Michael of Karthaus, Pa., and Miss Alice C. Mulson of Covington township, called at the West Side parsonage on Wednesday evening, August 15th, and were married by the pastor, William L. Armstrong. The wedding ceremony was used. They were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd L. Mulson of Clearfield, Pa. The happy couple departed in their automobile for a trip. The well wishes as well as congratulations of their friends are given to them for a happy and successful life together.

Oliver Commons and George Funk of Barnesboro motored here and spent Thursday at the home of George Evans.

GEORGE GENTRY PASSES AWAY

George Gentry, wire chief for the Huntingdon and Clearfield Telephone Company, who had been seriously ill for the past week or ten days, died at the Clearfield hospital Wednesday afternoon about 4 o'clock.

The deceased, who was about 40 years of age, was an industrious likeable man and had made a host of friends during his stay in Clearfield, and enjoyed the unbounded respect and esteem of his employers and all with the pleasure of his acquaintance.

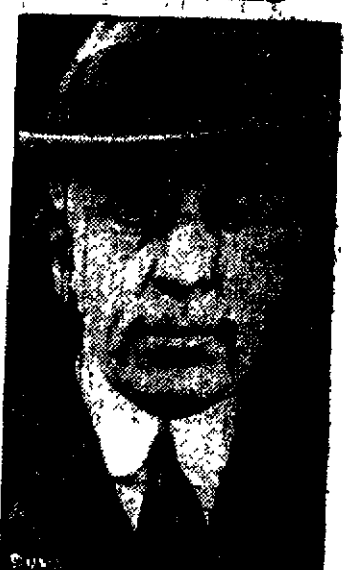

His remains were prepared for burial by Undertaker Leavy and shipped to the home of his parents in Wellsboro, Pa., for interment.

KEPNER ACQUITTED OF WIFE MURDER BY VER- DICT OF JUDGE

Friederick, Md., Aug. 16.—B. Eward Kepner, prominent Frederick business man today was acquitted of the murder of his wife, Grace Simmons Kepner, who was found dead last June 18.

The verdict rendered by Judges Uner, Worthington and Peter, of the circuit court, who heard the case was that "In the opinion of the court the evidence does not prove beyond a reasonable doubt that the prisoner at the bar committed the act charged against him."

APPOINTED

Campbell Bascom Slomp, 53, of Big Bone Gap, Va., Republican state chairman and former congressman, has been named as secretary to the president, according to George D. Christia.

Three Missing Following Explosion on Motor Boat Out On Lake In Vermont

Castleton, Vt., Aug. 17.—Three persons are believed to have been drowned last night when a motor launch in which 11 persons were riding exploded.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Buehler, Richmond Hills, N. Y., and Miss Ruth Prager, Brooklyn, N. Y., three persons missing from a local hotel, are believed to be the victims. Search for the bodies is being conducted today.

THE TRUTH

About The Rolling Stone Bridge

THE TRUTH ABOUT THE ROLLING STONE BRIDGE

The Rolling Stone bridge is now open for traffic and more than fifty vehicles, on an average, pass over daily. Now it appears that a certain County Commissioner is trying to deceive the voters into believing that the rebuilding of said bridge was brought about through his influence, when in fact said commissioner was its worst enemy.

Said Commissioner told the Commission of Public Grounds and Buildings that the bridge at Deer Creek was the only bridge of the two that needed it, and that of every ten vehicles crossing the river between Karthaus and Shawsville, nine went over the Deer Creek bridge. He also told them that there was a very dangerous crossing at Rolling Stone. The fact is that the crossing at Rolling Stone is not any more dangerous than the one at Karthaus, and no accidents have ever occurred at either of the two crossings.

The people of Eastern Girard, Covington, and Karthaus Townships in Clearfield County, and West Keating and East Keating in Clinton county, having seen advertisements for bids for rebuilding the Deer Creek bridge and none for rebuilding the half bridge at Rolling Stone, began to wonder if they were to be shut off entirely from the markets at Grass Flat, Windburne, Kylertown and other towns on that side of the river where many of them had found ready sale for their products. So the people above named Townships got together and had J. L. McGonigal of Pottersdale call the County Commissioners to Karthaus for an interview. On the arrival of the N. Y. C. River Line ferry, Mr. Tom Weiner and M. L. Farrell got off the train, there being about 35 representatives of the township there also to meet them. We received a very warm handshake from Mr. Weiner but a very cold one from Mr. Farrell, as the first question asked by Mr. Farrell was, "What kind of a damn f---up have you people got to catch us?"

We were there to tell them as we thought that they were representatives and could tell us why the bridge at Deer Creek was up for bid and the one at Rolling Stone was apparently knocked out.

Mr. Farrell's reply was that only one bridge was to be built, and that he thought that as the one at Deer Creek was used most, that it should be the bridge built.

That sort of ruled the delegation from the township and J. L. McGonigal then informed the Commissioners that he would get out petitions and have them presented to the Commissioners of Public Grounds and Buildings at Harrisburg showing that the township was a necessity and that it was needed just as much as the one at Deer Creek. Whereupon Mr. Farrell made the remark that he would not sign such a petition.

Within one hour from that time Squire Wolmar of Karthaus had a number of petitions headed and placed in the hands of J. L. McGonigal, Miles Conaway and Joe Kailburn, who began traveling over the districts affected by the Rolling Stone bridge and with the assistance of George E. McGonigal, Matthew Shaver, who furnish cars without charge, they traveled over West Keating, Karthaus, Covington, and most of Girard, and Coper Townships where they found the people anxious to sign the petitions. We had 19 petitions and secured between twelve and fifteen hundred signers.

The petitions were sent to H. B. Scott's office at Philsburg as he was to be one of the representatives to go to Harrisburg with us, but he fell down on the job when he found out that our friend Maxwell of Morrisdale was not in favor of the rebuilding of the bridge, and when we found that Mr. Scott had changed his mind about going to Harrisburg with us, we went to his office and secured the petitions at Mr. Weiner (who rendered every assistance within his power to help us have the bridge rebuilt), J. L. McGonigal and W. E. Conaway took the petitions to Harrisburg where they were presented to Mr. Templeton, of the Commission of Public Grounds and Buildings.

We were then surprised to learn that Mr. Farrell had told the Commission when he visited them that the bridge at Rolling Stone was not needed and as a result they had ordered the rebuilding of the Deer Creek bridge, and refused to order the rebuilding of the bridge at Rolling Stone.

However when the 19 petitions were presented to Thomas Templeton, signed by some of the best people in the county, he soon saw the necessity of the bridge at Rolling Stone and joined Messrs. Weiner, McGonigal and Conaway, and together they went to see State Treasurer Snyder and explained the situation to him and after some little argument he joined the delegation and we went to the office of Auditor General Lewis and explained the necessity of the bridge being rebuilt to him. We found him to be a real man and he remarked that it was a shame that a whole farming community should be shut off from their lands for three or four years for the sake of one span of bridge.

As the petitions had been left in Mr. Templeton's office, Mr. Lewis told us to get the petitions and they would have something done before the following Saturday evening.

We found Mr. Snyder, Mr. Templeton and Mr. Lewis very nice men and willing to listen to reason, and when they understood the situation they were willing to give us every assistance within their power, but from the above, it can be easily seen just how much Mr. Farrell did toward having the Rolling Stone bridge rebuilt.

We also found that the Commission of Public Grounds and Buildings had been left under the impression that it would cost more money to rebuild the Rolling Stone bridge than it would cost to rebuild the Deer Creek bridge, and when they found that the cost would not be so high, and that there was plenty of money available to have both bridges rebuilt, they soon converted.

We have them all.

tuned for bids for rebuilding the Rolling Stone bridge also. Mr. Farrell also tries to leave the impression that we were opposed to the rebuilding of the bridge at Deer Creek, which is not the case, as on the contrary we were much in favor of having both of these bridges rebuilt, as we considered them both a necessity.

How to build up your Weight

To be under weight often proves low fighting-power in the body. It often means you are minus nerve-power, minus red-cells in your blood, minus a health, minus vitality.

That's why S.S.S., since 1826, has meant to thousands of underweight men and women, a plus in their strength. Your body fills to the point of power, your flesh becomes firmer, the age lines that come from thinness disappear. You look younger, firmer, happier, and you feel it, too, all over your body. More red-blood-cells! S.S.S. will build them.

S.S.S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

While "fanning" a little after the firemen's banquet at the park Wednesday evening A. W. Baird, of Osceola, and Jim Cahill, now of Johnstown, but formerly of Osceola, fell to reminiscing over the organization of the Central District Association, and said of the originators of the movement but the two gentlemen named were present at the inception of the organization and in Clearfield to attend the 34th convention.

Baird said the forming of a district convention was first discussed at Columbia park, Osceola on Labor Day, of 1891. There were present at this time a group of firemen composed of A. W. Baird, Jim Cahill and Ed Bates, of Osceola; W. C. Langford and Alex Smith, of Houtzdale; W. F. Bradley, of Clearfield; Steele Crissman and Jack McClellan, of Philipsburg. All of these old timers have been gathered to their reward except Baird, Cahill and Bates.

The party adjourned to the rooms of the Columbia Fire Co., and formed their new organization, making Alex Smith, President. Just fifteen days later the first convention was held at Philipsburg.

Since that time the District Association has grown until at this year's convention on 200 delegates, representing more than fifty fire companies were present.

HUGHES REFUSES TO SPONSOR LETTER IN BERGDOLL CASE

Disabled Veterans of World War Were Apparently Premature In Giving News to Press.

PRESS FOR ACTION

Washington, Aug. 16.—The State Department will take no action on the recent Bergdoll kidnapping attempt at Eberbach until a report on the affair has reached the department from official American sources abroad.

That was made plain by Secretary Hughes today in branding as forgery the telegram received in Cincinnati last night by Raymond A. Lassance, national adjutant of the Disabled American Veterans of the World War. The spurious telegram, signed with Secretary Hughes' name, said that, if possible, the government would obtain the immediate extradition of Bergdoll.

That the interests of Lieutenant Hoover Griggs will be protected by the American government was a foregone conclusion, it was stated, but it is doubtful if the United States can do more than see that he receives fair treatment if it is established that he was a party to a conspiracy to kidnap on German soil. No attempt will be made to extradite Bergdoll, as the United States has no treaty with Germany which would permit his removal.

Secretary of State Charles E. Hughes in Washington has announced he intends "immediately" to try to extradite Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, the notorious slacker, from Germany.

The Secretary's announcement contained in a telegram to Raymond A. Lassance, national adjutant of the Disabled Veterans of the World War. It comes on the heels of the killing by Bergdoll of Karl Schmidt, said to be a former American service man, and the wounding of Roger Sperber, his companion. They were alleged to have been trying to kidnap Bergdoll. Lieutenant Corliss Hoover Griggs, a reserve officer of the United States army, and his chauffeur, Eugene Victor Neilson, Chicago, were arrested and jailed at Mosbach, Germany, as co-conspirators.

Mr. Hughes statement follows: "Although the Bergdoll-Griggs situation is extremely delicate, the State Department wishes to assure the national headquarters of the Disabled Veterans of the World War that the utmost care of the Government will be exercised to protect the interest of Lieutenant Griggs and, if

Lieutenant Griggs and his chauffeur, the latest cables say, are being held incommunicado in separate cells in the jail at Mosbach, Baden. The fourth man arrested with them is said to be a Russian prince, known as Gagarin.

To thwart attempts to rescue the Americans, the Neckar valley, in which Heidelberg and Eberbach, where the killing and the arrest of the Americans took place, is said to be an armed camp.

All trains are being searched for parties of rescuers. The Germans in Baden profess to fear an armed invasion by the French military. Sperber, whose thumb was chewed off by Bergdoll, is said to be a native Parisian.

The baggage of the Americans has been searched and turned over to the Baden prosecutor at Karlsruhe. Representative Roy G. Fitzgerald of Dayton, O., in response to a request from the father of Lieutenant Griggs, will appeal personally to President Coolidge, Secretary Hughes and Secretary of War Weeks. The Congressman is a World War veteran and he has frequently demanded on the floor of the House that the Government take steps to compel Germany to surrender Bergdoll.

The situation marks a certain impotency on the part of the Government and it seems to me that the administration has a duty to perform," he said.

"I want this Government to take over, honest and available means to bring this man back to the custody of the United States."

DODGE BROTHERS ANNOUNCE IMPORTANT IMPROVEMENTS

Dodge Brothers have not simply brought out a complete new line of motor cars. They have done something infinitely wiser and better than that.

They have brought new beauty, new riding ease and new mechanical perfection to the product on which their reputation as builders has been founded.

They have built a better and a more desirable line of motor cars—yet basically and fundamentally the identity of their product remains the same.

The same sturdy engine is under the hood; the same dependable chassis, improved in numberless details, underlies the body.

But the rear springs—now underslung—have been materially lengthened. The wheelbase, too, is longer, and the combined result is a notable improvement in riding qualities.

Bodies of all types have been designed to give improved appearance, and greater comfort. Lower, longer, with deeper seats and more leg room, the lines of these new cars are low-slung and graceful—the interiors are comfortable and roomy.

New head lamps and fenders, especially designed by Dodge Brothers to conform with the general lines of the car—a long straight hood and cowl effect—longer and wider running boards—unusually wide doors—combination stop signal and tail lamp—and instruments attractively grouped on raised panel—are a few of the numerous body innovations common to all types.

Combining these features with important mechanical improvements too numerous and technical to enumerate here, it is not extravagant to predict a reception for these cars unprecedented in automotive annals.

Henry Ford must think the people of the United States have no power of reasoning. Not long ago he set forth in his "Dearborn Independent" an argument showing that a certain coal company could reduce its price for coal one dollar per ton and still make a fair profit. He evidently did not stop to think that every reader will at once respond that Mr. Ford could cut the price of his silver $50 and still make a fair profit.

Now, in the editorial page of his paper, Mr. Ford severely criticizes newspapers for publishing articles signed by Jack Dempsey, Babe Ruth and others, when everybody knows that these men did not write the articles and could not have written them. But on the page opposite that editorial there is a full page article headed "Mr. Ford's Page."

It is a splendid article, written in magnificently constructed sentences, perfect in grammatical construction and rhetorical composition. It displays a considerable knowledge of history. In view of the fact that Mr. Ford had little schooling, though that Benedict Arnold was a writer, and declared that "history is bunk," there are few of the readers of that article who will believe that Ford wrote it, even though it bears his name.

Most people will believe that Ford is too busy with more important things to spend his time writing newspaper articles. But why should Mr. Ford criticize the publication of articles under the names of Jack Dempsey and Babe Ruth, if, as Mr. Ford claims, they did not write the articles, when articles are appearing under his name which he did not write?—Albana Tribune.

PEACE WITH MEXICO?

The country may cautiously congratulate itself on the outcome of the mission of Charles B. Warren and Judge John A. Payne to Mexico City. They are hurrying to Washington bearing the minutes of a lengthy interchange of views with Mexico's Commissioners, Fernando Gonzales Roa and Ramon Posada, jointly signed, which it is hoped will be the basis for a new and friendlier relationship between Mexico and the United States.

Recognition of the Obregon Government is conditioned upon the acceptability of these minutes to President Coolidge and Secretary Hughes. Messrs. Warren and Payne have accomplished the initial and more difficult part of a task of supreme importance. An accord with Mexico on a mutually equitable basis had become a political as well as an economic necessity. To reach such an accord, or even the basis for it, required the exercise of limitless patience and resourceful diplomacy.

Mexico has gone through a revolution as complete and almost as drastic as that of Russia. The Mexican Constitution, which exalts the poor, puts into force principles which make it little less difficult and burdensome for foreign capital to acquire or hold land and mineral rights in Mexico than it would be under the Soviet, and for the same reason. The right of the individual is exalted over the right of corporate property. The dangers, irritations and injustices to which American interests in Mexico have been subjected are endless.

Mexico, however, is no less aware than the United States of the distressing aspects of the present situation. The American Commissioners went to Mexico in a spirit of conciliation, and in the same spirit were received by President Obregon. They carried to him the assurance that this country wished to deal no less fairly than it asked to be dealt by.

The peace and friendship that seem assured as a result of this mission were desired ardently by our late President. If the Mexican Government is recognized and friendship re-established, it will be another achievement of that spirit of good will which was President Harding's most endearing characteristic.—Phila. Public Ledger.

USELESS CONVERSATIONS
By FLORENCE DAVIES

A couple of men were talking about a fellow worker, who, though a brilliant thinker, happens to be quite deaf.

"He would make a great president of the company," said one of the men "and his deafness, instead of being a handicap, would be a tremendous asset. Think of the useless twaddle he would be spared from having to hear. He would be saved hours of wasted time and be free to concentrate upon problems that matter."

Would that some of us were deaf, if thereby we might escape useless conversations.

The scientists are with us in recognizing the waste of useless talk.

"It is not impossible," says a writer in "American Medicine," "that human efficiency is considerably reduced by the cheers and jeers and the useless conversations of daily life."

Whatever the medicine men mean by "cheers and jeers" of life, it is perfectly apparent that unless we turn ourselves into machines we cannot get along without some of them.

Even useless conversation is a human failing, without which life would lose much of its flavor. But something depends upon what we mean by useless. The small pleasantries have their place. Even remarks about the weather have a kind of extra meaning.

"It's a little warmer today," mumbled to a friend in passing or while waiting for a street car, means vastly more than a comment upon the state of the thermometer.

It means something like this: "While I have nothing in particular to say to you, dear madam, I bumble these words about the weather just to make talk and thereby show you that I have a friendly feeling toward you and do not wish to stand here in glum silence."

Now that isn't wholly useless, even though it isn't necessary.

But the fact remains that countless people cut down their own efficiency and the efficiency of their friends by useless talk. Talking uses up countless tons of nervous energy. And of all the useless and hurtful talk, none is more so than that which deals in petty personalities.

The woman who runs over to borrow a pattern and can't get away until she has rehearsed all her family troubles and those of half her neighbors, not only takes the pattern but often filches a precious hour from you while she stands in the door way, "too busy" to come in and sit down.

When she finally gets away the clock has crept a whole hour nearer noon and though you have done no work you are wearier than if you spent that whole hour over the ironing board.

Only the hard-pressed business woman, whose desk is piled high with orders, or letters or important details, knows the enormity of the crime of useless conversation. She listens to hours of tedious explanation when a simple statement of fact would tell the story. One woman customer even tells just who is coming to visit her when she orders something special from the store.

If weariness has overtaken you, if you are threatened with a nervous breakdown if your efficiency seems to have vanished, there are two things to do. One is to stop and go to a sanatorium for a good rest. The other is to cut out all the useless talk for a month and see how much useless energy you have with which to meet the demands of daily living.

ROCHESTER MILLS BUSINESS MEN ATTEMPT TO GET STOCK MONEY BACK

A meeting of subscribers to the capital stock of the Farmers and Miners' bank at Rochester Mills was called for Wednesday evening, August 15, to take necessary steps to recover money advanced in the promotion of a bank in that town.

In the fall of 1920 Dr. Theodore Kharas, president of the Industrial Securities Company, of Harrisburg, interested residents of that community in the promotion of a bank to be called "The Farmers and Miners Bank of Richmond," at Rochester Mills, Pa. a state bank similar to those organized by him in this State in the past few years. The necessary subscriptions, it appears, were not forthcoming, and the proposition has been hanging for the past three years.

An act was passed at the last session of the legislature which gives the banking commissioner authority to refuse charters to banks organized by promoters, and for this reason the subscribers are contemplating action to recover money already sent in.

HE'S BROKE, SAYS DOLLINGS

Had Million Three Years Ago, But Lost It in Crash.

R. L. Dollings, organizer of the defunct R. L. Dollings Co., of Ohio, parent company of the bankrupt R. L. Dollings Company of Pennsylvania, is completely "broke." Three years ago, it is said, he was a millionaire.

This information was disclosed at a hearing in Cincinnati, before Charles I. Greve, referee in bankruptcy. Dollings was put on the stand by counsel for his personal creditors, in an attempt to determine whether he had assets other than listed by him in his personal bankruptcy schedule, in which he listed stocks which were alleged to be worthless, and a small tract of land, clothing and a watch.

A report from a mercantile agency was introduced to show that in 1920 Dollings had a net personal wealth of approximately $1,200,000.

Asked if he owned anything else at the present time that was not listed in his schedule, Dollings replied: "No, I am completely broke and have been for a year."

Efforts of counsel to connect Dollings with the ownership of various properties were unsuccessful.

FORD HAS BUILT MILLION CARS SO FAR THIS YEAR

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 16.—Domestic production of Ford Cars and Trucks for 1928 reached one million Friday July 20, it is just announced at the offices of the Ford Motor Company.

Under the growing demand for Ford products since the start of the year, production has been steadily increasing and the million mark was reached between two and three months earlier this year than in 1927. The first millionth car was reached in 1915, approximately 12 years after the company started. To meet the increasing demand since that time production has every year been stepped up until now manufacturing facilities are so enormous as to permit the company to produce a million cars and trucks in the remarkably short period of a few days over six months.—Adv.

LET THE KIDDIES HAVE PLENTY OF OUR MILK

It's the greatest brain and brawn builder that you might give them. Our milk contains everything that a good milk should and it, having gone thru the pasteurization process, is the purest milk that you might give your kiddies.

If you will ask the mothers of most of the husky kiddies in this city about the building properties of our milk, you will find that the answer is usually "we use Clearfield Dairy Milk."

Let the kiddies have all they want. It won't hurt them and it will help to make them huskier and brighter.

American Farm Bureau

These County Champion Club Members of New Mexico Are Competing in the Live Stock Judging at the Final State Competition at State College. The Winning Team Will Compete With Other States at Chicago.

STATE FARM BUREAUS USING AX ON TAXES

Facts Secured by Bureau of Agricultural Economics.

Taxes on farm land in 1922 showed an increase of 134 per cent over 1913. The average taxes on land, per farm, now stand at $108. With the personal property and income tax added, the average for each farm is brought up to $151. On this basis the total direct tax now paid by agriculture is close to one billion dollars. These are the facts secured by the United States bureau of agricultural economics in a survey covering more than 6,000 farms in every part of the United States. Some reduction should be made in the figures, since the farms surveyed were larger than the average shown by the census. The conclusion reached by the department of research is that the total direct tax paid by farmers would be around $800,000,000, or $140 per farm.

Total receipts from direct taxation in the United States for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1922, were $5,673,000,000. Direct farm taxes comprised 18 per cent of this total. Of state and local taxes amounting to $3,585,000,000, agriculture, it is estimated, paid 22 per cent.

Several state and county farm bureaus have become interested in studying their local taxation problems. In ten states, according to reports made to the American Farm Bureau federation, work has been undertaken which has yielded profitable results.

The department of research report analyses in detail the work carried on in these ten states. A fair idea of this work can be gained by a synopsis of the taxation activities of the New Hampshire, Nebraska and Kentucky farm bureaus.

The tax committee of the New Hampshire farm bureau found that tangible property, which includes farms, homes, real estate, representing a wealth of approximately $500,000,000 in New Hampshire, paid over $11,000,000 taxes in 1922, while intangible property in the form of securities, representing a wealth greater than all the tangible property, paid only $100,000. It also found that of the various classes of tangible property, farms and farmers' property in the form of live stock was bearing more than its share of the burden, for it found in most cases property taxed at approximately 100 per cent of its value, and sometimes even more, while some of the big mercantile corporations of the state and some of the public utilities were taxed at from 50 to 85 per cent of their actual value.

The committee recommended that the tax commission compile and make public figures indicating the relative percentages of the total revenue—both state and local—which is raised on different classes of property. It requested data showing the relation of assessed valuations to true values for each class of property.

The tax work in Nebraska was started by the Thurston county farm bureau, in an analysis of public expenditures. Before this compilation was made feeling had been running high in Thurston county against excessive taxes. Some of the taxpayers were blaming the state for building a $5,000,000 capitol, others blamed the road-building program, and others the construction of bridges. The survey gave the facts, which made every one more satisfied.

The work in Thurston county was reported to the state organization and, through the efforts of the state farm bureau tax committee, similar data were compiled by the state treasurer for each county in the state. The president of the Nebraska farm bureau says that there was another feature of the work which had more direct results.

In Thurston county it was found that the county bridge fund, and the whole indebtedness fund, and the emergency bridge fund, amounting to $2 of the $4.90, were all spent for bridges, and it was believed in an unauthorized way. The county farm bureau took the matter up and appointed a tax committee to investigate. The investigation resulted in calling the state engineer and actually visiting and checking the material and construction of 119 bridges which had been built for two years. It is a long story and the result of it was that the investigation through the farm bureau secured a reduction in the cost of these bridges of $34,000. For the coming year a tax committee, with a member from each precinct, was organized to meet with the county board and assist in auditing bills and inspecting contracts.

The Kentucky farm bureau, through its tax committee, is co-operating with county farm bureaus in resisting increases in assessed valuation which are considered inequitable. Proper legal action is taken in behalf of farm bureau members only. In Union county $28,584 in taxes were saved in 1922 for 485 members of the farm bureau. This was an average saving of $53.86 per member.

SPECIAL SERVICE IS PROMISED BY ROADS

Result of First Meeting of Farmers and Carriers.

Special service in transporting farm supplies has been guaranteed co-operative buying associations in the Eastern states by 12 big railroads as the result of a conference held between representatives of the roads and the farmers' organizations in Cleveland.

Eight co-operative associations distributing farm supplies in the East were represented, including the G. L. F. exchange, Eastern States Farmers' exchange, Pennsylvania Federation of Co-operatives, Maryland Agricultural corporation, West Virginia Co-operative association and the Farm Bureau federations of Ohio, Michigan and Indiana.

The movement of solid trainloads of supplies from the Mid West to the East was promised the producers' associations. This type of service is now rendered packers and other big shippers of perishable products. The railroads represented were the New York Central, New Haven & Hartford, Pennsylvania, Erie, Boston & Albany, Nickel Plate, Peoria Belt line, Canadian Pacific, B & O, Grand Trunk, Big Four and B. & M.

In commenting on the conference, H. E. Babcock, general manager of the G. L. F. exchange declared "The meeting brought together for the first time the carriers and the producers of the East. The attitude of the roads is one of co-operation. Their action in providing solid trainload service will mean lower costs of production in the East, for it will eliminate some of the unsatisfactory transportation conditions of the past, and it will permit the co-operative associations to furnish service of a high order to their members."

THORNTON FRIEND OF LEGION

Head of Canadian Railway System, Long in Army Service, Strong for Organization.

A Canadian by adoption, but formerly a citizen of the United States, Sir Henry Thornton, head of the great Canadian national railway system, shows his respect for American World war fighters on every occasion.

When members of the American Legion in Canada gathered to pay tribute to the honored World war dead of the nation, Sir Henry was the principal speaker, taking this opportunity to demonstrate his regard for the heroes of the land of his birth. The event was attended not only by American Legion members, but representatives of nearly every allied nation.

One of the best known men in the Dominion of Canada, Sir Henry is heartily co-operating with the attempt of the American Legion to organize the veterans of the United States now in Canada into posts of the American Legion. A recent reorganization of the Legion in the Dominion has caused the inauguration of such a campaign.

Sir Henry was born in Logansport, Ind., in 1871. His early education was received at St. Paul's, Concord, N. H., and he later entered the University of Pennsylvania. Here he received a degree from the civil engineering department of the school in 1894, and almost immediately obtained employment with the Pennsylvania Railway company as a draughtsman. He held various important positions with the engineering department of this company and in 1911 became general superintendent of the Long Island rail way, a subsidiary line of the Pennsylvania. In this capacity he had much to do with the development of the Long Island terminal and with the electrification of the Long Island railroad.

In April, 1914, he was called to England to become general manager of the Great Eastern railway. This railway was one of the most important military lines of communication during the war. In 1916 Mr. Thornton was named deputy director of inland water transportation, with the rank of colonel in the Royal Engineers. This department handled all inland water navigation in northern France, Egypt and Mesopotamia. He rose to the rank of major general, and was named inspector general of transportation in 1918. Following his acceptance of British naturalization in 1919, he was gazetted a knight commander of the Order of the British Empire. He has been awarded the American Distinguished Service Medal, the Order of Leopold from the Belgians, and the Legion of Honor from the French.

Sir Henry Thornton, K. C. B.

Call from Canada for Sir Henry's services came in November, 1922, when he was asked to go to the Dominion to the Canadian National Railway system as chairman of the board of directors and president of the company.

AIM TO TEACH PATRIOTISM

Several New Laws, Approved by American Legion, Passed by West Virginia Legislature.

Before any person can become a teacher in West Virginia schools, he or she must take an oath of allegiance to support the Constitution of the United States and the state of West Virginia. This is the text of a bill passed recently by the West Virginia legislature as one of three measures sponsored by the American Legion, all of which have become statutes of the state.

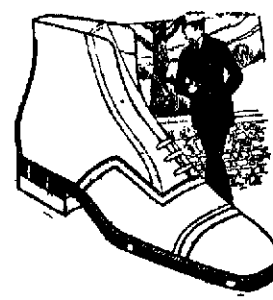

The bill requiring the oath of allegiance is one of the ideas for carrying out plans for thorough Americanization put forward by the Legion and given strength by the support of the veterans' organization.

Another bill requires that the United States flag shall be flown over every schoolhouse in the state while schools are in session, except in inclement weather. The bill further provides that the flag, a regulation United States standard, shall be purchased by the school board from the building fund.

The third bill which received the support of the Legion calls for thorough training in the schools of the state in history of the United States, civics and instruction in the constitutions of the nation and of the state. This bill was presented with the idea that this would the principles of Americanism, the perpetuation of the ideals of the nation, and knowledge of the organization of the government to one known to every student in the state.

Curwensville's Own Column

Robert Holden, of Bellwood, dropped into Curwensville yesterday for a short visit with relatives and old time friends. "Bob" Holden is one of the few men living around these parts who have logs out of Anderson creek when a "log cutter" was as much a profession as a doctor or a lawyer. When the lumbering business grew slack he went to Bellwood and entered the employ of the P. R. R. company as a locomotive fireman and in due time was promoted to an engineer. His health failing about a year ago he was placed on the retired list and pensioned after more than twenty years continuous service.

Mrs. Maud Dougherty, of Philadelphia, is visiting with her sister, Mrs. Jos. L. Dale on George street. The Jacob Cole family was quite a large one in its day but now there are only two members of it living. Mrs. Dale and Mrs. Dougherty, the eldest and the youngest. Thus one by one they pass away until in the course of a few years entire families are wiped out, and their names almost forgotten by us who are fast aging and becoming bald and grey headed.

Some three or four civil war veterans residing in this community, drove over to DuBois yesterday and attended a district gathering of old comrades held in that city. It is said to relate, but true nevertheless, that there are less than half a hundred old veterans residing within the confines of Clearfield county today.

The Messes Parmeter, neices of Mrs. Lew McKenrick from Eldred, Pa. are visiting at the home of their aunt Mr. and Mrs. John Musser, who visited in the McKenrick household last week have returned to their home in DuBois, Pa.

The third annual all-day cutting picnic under the auspices of the Methodist and Lutheran schools, will be held at Winimoor park, near New Millport, on Thursday, Aug. 23d. All Sunday schools and attendants are most cordially invited.

C. A. Brown, an employee at the Crescent brick plant, had a Ford 1922 model, stolen Wednesday night at late hour. The car was parked on Filbert street near the Dotts garage. The machine bore license number 731-641 and engine number 6191108. The stolen car was equipped with spare tire and a hub metre. An attempt was made the same night to get away with a car belonging to Dick Lantz, but the thieves failed to work the lock combination and could not get the car in motion. State Police and other officers have been notified to keep a watch for the stolen car and arrest any one having the same in his or their possession.

Wednesday night the town was given over to the Rhoda Rebecca lodge of Odd Fellows, in order that they might successfully carry out their program which they termed and advertised as "Arabian Night." The square between the bank corner and the Park house was roped off in order that the crowd of people could have full sway at the booths which had been erected on the south side of the street, and containing any and every kind of goods, candies, cakes and pies that one could wish. The crowd numbered several thousand people and the booths did a landoffice business until after midnight, when the ladies who had charge were tired enough to retire to their homes for a little rest. The drawing for the Maxwell car was the most interesting event on the book and every one who had a ticket was on tip toe until the winner was announced. The lucky ticket was held by Paul Floyd, of Williamsport. All in all the night was one full of amusement and sport and no doubt the promoters of the event received considerable remuneration from their venture.

The Street carnival will be continued in Curwensville during the balance of the week. The Yellow Dogs will sponsor it. All money derived as their share of the profits will be turned over to some improvement to be made at the Park ground. This will be a chance for everyone to contribute a share toward this movement and at the same time receive something for their money. The Yellow Dog organization does not want any of the profits derived either from the carnival or what is received from their Labor Day celebration; all will be strictly applied to improvements to be made out on the Park grounds and nowhere else. The Yellow Dogs is an institution that is independent within themselves, and whenever they desire to create a fund for expenses of halls, etc., they solicit among the members and never ask for more than is actually necessary.

Moose Legion, No. 1, to the number of over fifty, banqueted at the Park House Wednesday evening. The Legion is a degree higher than received in the local lodge and is fast growing in popularity among Clearfield county members of the Moose organization.

Yesterday forenoon Mr. Paul Robinson invited Your Honor to a seat in his car and a drive to "Old Town" to witness the fireman's parade. We accepted and enjoyed both the drive and also in watching the parade from the Court House plaza. One excitable lad, whose feet were judged to be about three hundred, trod on our sore toe, and gee whiz, when she reared up and clapped her hands as the Clearfield fire boys were passing, we made our entire foot and leg farewell. She finally hopped off our foot and did not apologize either. We limped around all day as a result of her elephant tread. Gosh darn it, everytime we go down to the county seat to have a little pleasure or fun, some thing always happens to mar it.

Philip Reed and sister, Miss Bernice, left yesterday morning for Philadelphia where they will spend several weeks with relatives.

For some reason or other of which we have not learned, Rescue Hose and Ladder company of Curwensville did not attend the district firemen's convention held at Clearfield yesterday. It is something unusual for this body of volunteer firemen to miss a meeting of this kind, and here tofore carried with them the champion drill team. Some one informs us that the reason for their non attendance was that our firemen do not have a presentable uniform in which to make a respectable appearance in parade. If that was the principal reason, then for goodness sake let the people get together and start some movement by which a sufficient amount of money can be raised to purchase a new uniform in time for the fire boys to attend the convention to be held at Patton next year.
